Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being unpatentable by Livezey ('769). Livezey discloses a transmission having a stepless change speed unit (107, 109) receiving power from an engine, a gear transmission (138, 140) receiving power from the change speed unit and disposed rearwardly of the engine, a rear wheel differential (21) receiving power from the gear transmission and disposed rearwardly of the engine and a transmission case (23) accommodating the gear transmission and differential mechanism and coupled to the engine wherein the change speed unit is disposed rearwardly (behind) of the gear transmission and the differential mechanism.

Art Unit: 3681

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by Folsom et al ('855). Folsom et al discloses a transmission having a stepless change speed unit (50, 60) receiving power from an engine, a gear transmission (376, 386) receiving power from the change speed unit and disposed rearwardly of the engine, a rear wheel differential (390) receiving power from the gear transmission and disposed rearwardly of the engine and a transmission case (417) accommodating the gear transmission and differential mechanism and coupled to the engine (via shafts and linkages) wherein the change speed unit is disposed rearwardly (behind) of the gear transmission and the differential mechanism.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by Ishimori ('305). Ishimori discloses a transmission having a stepless change speed unit (13) receiving power from an engine, a gear transmission (16) receiving power from the change speed unit and disposed rearwardly of the engine, a rear wheel differential (40) receiving power from the gear transmission and disposed rearwardly of the engine and a transmission case (6) accommodating the gear transmission and differential mechanism and coupled to the engine (via shafts and linkages) wherein the change speed unit is disposed rearwardly (behind) of the gear transmission and the differential mechanism.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Folsom et al and Ishimori in view of Sato et al ('414). Folsom et al and Ishimori disclose a transmission case (6, 417) and a change speed unit having a port block, but the port blocks are not detachable for covering an open side of the transmission case.

Sato et al discloses a traveling transmission for a work vehicle having a change speed unit (20) disposed in a case (21) and a detachable port block (21P) for closing an open side of the case (21) and an open side of a case (5) or a case (10).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the transmission cases of Folsom et al and Ishimori with a detachable port block covering in view of Sato et al to eliminate the use of having separate coverings for each open side of the housings.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3 and 4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

FACSIMILE TRANSMISSION

Submission of your response by facsimile transmission is encouraged. Group 3600's facsimile number is (703) 872-9326 before final and 703-872-9327 after final. Recognizing the fact that reducing cycle time in the processing and examination of patent applications will effectively increase a patent's term, it is to your benefit to submit responses by facsimile transmission whenever permissible. Such submission will place the response directly in our examining group's hands and will eliminate Post Office processing and delivery time as well as the PTO's mail room processing and delivery time. For a complete list of correspondence not permitted by facsimile transmission, see MPEP 502.01. In general, most responses and/or amendments not requiring a fee, as well as those requiring a fee but charging such fee to a deposit account, can be submitted by facsimile transmission. Responses requiring a fee which applicant is paying by check should not be submitting by facsimile transmission separately from the check.

Responses submitted by facsimile transmission should include a Certificate of Transmission (MPEP 512). The following is an example of the format the certification might take:

I hereby certify that this correspondence is being facsimile transmitted to the Patent and Trademark Office (Fax No. (703) 000-0000) on _____ (Date)

Typed or printed name of person signing this certificate:

(Signature)

If your response is submitted by facsimile transmission, you are hereby reminded that the original should be retained as evidence of authenticity (37 CFR 1.4 and MPEP 502.02). Please do not separately mail the original or another copy unless required by the Patent and Trademark Office. Submission of the original response or a follow-up copy of the response after your response has been transmitted by facsimile will only cause further unnecessary delays in the processing of your application; duplicate responses where fees are charged to a deposit account may result in those fees being charged twice.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Kita et al ('049).
